The main difficulty in wearing artificial teeth is they do not hold in their place firmly enough and add to this the annoyance of food getting.

I have discover ed a method of so constructing the plate of which the teeth are set that they will not star ar drop while eating or speaking, neither wir any particles of food get under the plate. The improvement is not in material, but in the construction, which secures the atmospheric pressure on the entire plate.

I have sold the exclusive of said improvement
